LETTER FROM THE COMPANY

I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your patience during the transitions we faced in 2007. We faced the challenge of relocating to south Georgia, the uncertainty of product availability, the excitement of new relationships with talented designers Kit Rae® and Gil Hibben®, the anticipation of new product ideas and product development, and that was just the first few months! With each challenge comes growth and experience. I am excited to welcome 2009 with this new United® Full Line catalog. We are feverishly working on new products as well as continuing into the exciting world of licensed products. In addition to The Lord of the Rings®, and Heroes®, we will also be the licensed product provider for Heavy Metal® and Highlander®. Thank you for being a valued United® Cutlery customer.

Best Regards, Clint H. Kadel

President / CEO

GIL HIBBEN™ SERIES

HIGHLANDER® HAND-FORGED SERIES

The Highlander® movies and television series chronicled the Immortals and their continuing battles with each other to be the final Immortal left alive...for "There can be only one!" The Immortals could not die...unless their heads were cut from their bodies. Thus, the Immortals battled each other with razor-sharp blades, beheading their defeated foes and acquiring their experience and power. This conflict had endured through the ages until the final few would feel the pull of the Gathering. At that time, the last Immortals would battle to the end in order to claim the Prize. The most well-known of the Immortals were the Scottish Highlanders, Connor and his cousin Duncan, of the Clan MacLeod. Connor and Duncan faced their foes in countless battles, each wielding his own distinctive katana.

These swords are authentic replicas of Connor's and Duncan's katanas. For the first time these iconic swords are being made with real hand-forged, carbon steel blades and authentically detailed faux ivory handles. The United® Cutlery replicas have been meticulously crafted using actual prop reference materials. The handle grips are cast one piece hardened resin, to precisely match the look, feel, and weight of real aged ivory.

A. Duncan MacLeod Forged Katana

Replica of the Highlander: The Series sword from seasons 2-5. Duncan inherited this sword from the samurai Hideo Koto over two-hundred years ago in feudal Japan. Duncan has used many weapons throughout his long life as an Immortal. Trained to be a warrior from birth, he first learned to wield the Scottish basket hilt Claymore and gained even more knowledge and skill with weapons during different time periods as a soldier. Duncan is an accomplished swordsman, martial arts expert, and constantly seeks to learn new skills. Duncan had traveled to Japan and became a student of Hideo Koto, from whom Duncan learned the ancient traditions, skills, and noble values of the samurai. Hideo Koto was forced to commit seppuku for helping a "barbarian" and asked Duncan to be his second in the ritual...a duty that required Duncan to take Hideo's head to ease his suffering. In return for this service and Duncan's vow to always protect members of the Koto family, Duncan came into possession of the katana. It is with this katana in his hand that Duncan is truly at his most dangerous.

For the first time this sword includes the unseen overcoat scabbard that Duncan used to carry this sword unseen in public. Made of genuine and imitation leather, this custom designed scabbard can be worn on the side or back, and features a fully adjustable strap harness.

B. Connor MacLeod Forged Katana

Combining design elements from Highlander 1 and Highlander 2, this is the ultimate version of this legendary sword! Connor's katana originally belonged to Juan Sanchez Villa-Lobos Ramirez. Ramirez was an Immortal born in ancient Egypt and who came to Scotland to find Connor and teach him the rules and ways of the Immortals. Ramirez's katana had been forged by the legendary Japanese master swordsmith Masamune in 593 BC. Masamune gave Ramirez the katana after Ramirez married Shikiku, Masamune's daughter. Ramirez wielded this katana for the next 2,000 years. It was an incredibly powerful sword, with the metal in the blade being folded over 200 times, thus creating a blade of extraordinary strength and flexibility. Despite this and his vast experience, Ramirez was killed by the Kurgan while defending Connor's wife, Heather. Connor found the katana and preserved it, although he preferred to use the large broadsword of his clan. After Heather's death, Connor used his Scottish broadsword to mark her grave and began to use Ramirez's katana in his battles with other Immortals.

This version features the correct, 24K gold plated extra thick stuba, authentic metal tang caps, improved sculptural details, and authentic red scabbard with genuine red leather sword hangar to match the one worn by Ramirez in Highlander 1.

Forged of secret enchanted alloys, these weapons have been used throughout the ages in the eternal struggle between good and evil."
